

Fifteen More Mind Games to Research, Reflect on, and Report:

1. Sorites
 - a. The Liar
 - b. The Hooded Man
 - c. The Bald Man (Falakros Puzzle)
 - d. The Heap
2. Probabilities
 - a. Petersburg Paradox
 - b. Ellsberg Paradox
 - c. Two envelopes Paradox
3. Math stuff
 - a. Poincare Conjecture (shape of the universe)
 - b. Fibonacci Numbers
 - c. Simpson Paradox (statistics)
4. Ship of Theseus (replacing parts)
5. Kripkes Puzzle (naming, belief)
6. Newcomb's Paradox (choice)
7. Hemple's Paradox (ravens)
8. Searle's Chinese Room (parts of whole, understanding)

Do you remember the gist of

1. Zeno's Arrow (impossibility of motion or change)
2. Buridan's Ass (stumbling block to the concept of free will)
3. Occam's Razor (entities ought not to be multiplied, except from necessity)
4. Pascal's Wager (pragmatic approach to God—win and you've won it all; lose and you've not really lost)
5. Plato's Cave (the allegory for the nature of human knowledge—objects we see are only a shadow of the pure forms that exist in the realm of ideas—there is only one perfect form on which you must train your mind to contemplate so you can reach pure knowledge)

To keep your mind expanding, visit Zeno's Coffeehouse on the web

www.ronbarnette.com